Mike Jencks calls recall against him a 'personal vendetta'

by Ziba Rashidian

Supervisor Mike Jencks, who faces a recall election Nov. 8, termed the movement to oust him from office a "personal vendetta" and criticized the campaign methods of recall proponents.

Jencks, in an interview this week, criticized the lack of public debate on his performance in office between himself and the recall group, Monoans Against Unresponsive Supervisors.

"Why has their campaign style shunned direct public confrontation with me," Jencks asked. "The conclusion I've reached as to why, is that this recall has its seeds, not in politics, but quite frankly in a personal vendetta being led by Dr. [Milton] Zack and Mrs. [Pat] Eaton."

"I guess to understand the recall, the question to ask is 'what did I ever do to them [Eaton and Zack] to invite this recall blitzkrieg," Jencks said.

"I think Pat and Milton share a common attitude, that somehow, by virtue of their wealth, their ranches or medical degrees, they have some special birthright."

Jencks claimed that this attitude on the part of his opponents came into conflict with his own weighing of what was in the best interest of the county.

"I think what made them especially bitter was that this is a new way of doing things. In the past they'd been able to go to Bridgeport and get what they wanted with a handshake. They weren't used to be told no," Jencks said.

The schism between Jencks and his Long Valley and Hammil Valley detractors arose when the general plans for the two areas were before the board of supervisors for revisions.

"There's been a great deal of misinformation about my role in those two plans," he said, adding that his primary involvement with both plans has been attempts to respond to the communities' desires. "I believe the community as a whole should be the one to determine its own future," Jencks said.

Conflict between Jencks and some residents of Long Valley arose in March when the board of supervisors adopted the revised area plan which called for the preparation of environmental documents for commercial development along U.S. 395 and for developments within avalanche hazard zones in the community. At that time, Eaton, who owns part of the commercial property along U.S. 395, termed the board's action a "personal vendetta" against her and other property owners affected by the action.

Jencks disputed this claim, saying "My support [in the board vote] was for the task force recommendation verbatim." Jencks said that the task force recommendation approved by the supervisors incorporated a compromise worked out by that group and another group calling itself the Long Valley Area General Plan Revision Committee, which included Eaton.

On the Hammil Valley controversy, Jencks became embroiled in a dispute between agricultural

Scientist says volcano story 'was sort of an accident'

by Mike Yorkey

The geophysicist who turned the scientific community—and Mammoth—upside down with a report that a volcanic eruption could be triggered in the area as early as 1984, said the whole episode was "sort of an accident."

John Rundle of the Sandia National Laboratories in Albuquerque, New Mexico wrote a research paper with James Whitcomb of the University of Colorado's Cooperative Institute for Research in Environmental Sciences. In the treatise, the two scientists said molten rock could thrust itself up into an under round chamber and cause a volcano as early as next year.

The report was widely circulated in such newspapers as the Los Angeles Times and the San Francisco Chronicle and the nationwide AP and UPI wire services.

"One of our PR guys got a a hold of this internal memo and sent it out without thinking of the consequences," said Rundle in a phone interview.

"I'm rather hacked off about the whole thing," he continued, a feeling that pretty much sums up the attitude of most Mammoth residents. "It was sort of an accident. Most of the stuff came out of San Francisco. But the deed is done."

Rundle explained the language in an "internal memo" is considerably different from a report that is prepared for public consumption. "I wish some of the words that were used would have been toned down," said Rundle. "As an internal memo, you don't expect the whole world to see it."

What caused the most vexation for Rundle was the use of the dates in articles. In the L.A. Times article, for instance, the lead paragraph said a volcanic eruption could occur between late 1984 and 1987. "The idea of those dates in the article was that they have a certainty to them. They [the dates] do not have a certainty," said Rundle.

Rundle was quoted in the Times as saying, "A prediction, in order to be a prediction, has to specify the time, place and amount of material to be ejected. Our work is more of an envelope of probabilities, based on the assumption that our model [of what is happening in the Mammoth Lakes region] is correct—which we don't know—and that the amount of magmatic [molten rock] injection in the future is known—which is not right now."

Rundle said he and Whitcomb planned to unveil his "model" at the American Geophysical Union meeting in San Francisco from Dec. 6-10. A model is a device used by scientists to better explain scientific theories.

Rundle said the last time he was in Mammoth was in August. Since the earthquake swarm of Jan. 6, he had spent six weeks studying Mammoth's changing geology. One news service said that Rundle and Whitcomb were studying the area through the use of a U.S. Department of Energy grant to determine the economic feasibility of geothermal power.

Rundle said that was not totally true. Although the funding did come from a Department of Energy basic grant, there were no commercial aspects to the study. Rather, Rundle was commissioned to study and understand the role of underground magma, and its long-term impact.

Rundle said he studied the rate of magma injection in the Long Valley caldera, and he searched for

Outcry kills application

No beer or wine at McDonald's

by Ziba Rashidian

National media attention and local public outcry sacked a plan to serve beer and wine at the Mammoth McDonald's restaurant now under construction.

Owner of the Mammoth franchise, Whitey Andres, had applied to the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, for a wine and beer license, sparking the opposition of both the Mono County Board of Supervisors and the Mammoth Unified School District Board of Trustees. Concern of local government officials focused on the expected large teen-age clientele of the restaurant as well as plans to employ about 80 high school students.

McDonald's spokesman Bob Kaiser said the application was withdrawn when Andres decided "it would not be in the best interests of the community." Kaiser said Andres had requested the McDonald's management to make an exception to its policy of not serving alcoholic beverages due to the "unique location and large adult population" that would be served by the restaurant. If the Mammoth fast-foot restaurant had received the license, it would have been the first McDonald's to serve alcohol in the continental United States.

MUSD Superintendent Tom Henry said that during the height of the debate on the issue last week, he received calls from the Los Angeles Times, NBC, ABC, Associated Press, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Here we are doing things with our curriculum. We're a world-renowned ski resort, we're building a new elementary school, and we get all this publicity over a Big Mac and suds," Henry said.

Bishop, Mono County back SCE on hydro re-licensing

by Adrian Havas

The Mono County Supervisors and the Bishop City Council have supported Southern California Edison Company's fight to keep two municipalities, including the June Lake Public Utilities District, from taking over SCE-owned hydroelectric facilities in Mono County.

"We feel it unfair that a municipal agency can buy these plants at less than paid to construct and administer them," said Charles Miller, manager of SCE Eastern Sierra projects, at a Bishop City Council meeting Monday. Miller added that SCE had so far gained the endorsement of 110 cities and 41 counties in California.

The City of Bishop and Mono County are included in that list. A resolution prepared by Mono County stated that the county supports the utility's fight to remove municipal preference from FERC re-licensing procedure. In addition, the county supports the licensee that demonstrates the best ability to supply power in the public interest.

Currently, the City of Vernon is competing for licensing of a SCE project on Lee Vining Creek. The June Lake Public Utilities District has applied for license of a project on Rush Creek.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) has made several different rulings on the issue of whether to grant municipal preference in re-licensing proceedings. In 1920, the Federal Power Act granted re-licensing preference to original licensees, such as SCE. The law was reversed in 1980 when the FERC ruled for a Utah municipality. The utility appealed the decision to the U.S. Court of Appeal, where a judge affirmed the FERC ruling. The utility again appealed, this time to the Supreme Court, which subsequently denied petition of the case, thereby letting municipal preference stand. On Sept. 14, 1983, the FERC reversed its position on the issue. Bob Cecil, FERC information officer in Washington, D.C., said that the September ruling effectively "knocked out the underpinnings supporting municipal preference in re-licensing."

The FERC has already accepted the June Lake application for re-licensing of the Rush Creek project, and acceptance of the Vernon application is pending. According to a recent SCE news release, all of the company's hydro-plants could be re-licensed to municipalities by 1993, an action that would reduce SCE's power-producing ability by seven percent.

Miller said that SCE wants Congress to clarify the wording of the 1920 Power Act so that municipal preference would apply for licensing of new projects only. In the case of re-licensing of existing plants, the company wants

Hoar not guilty of drug charges

Edward Hoar was acquitted in a San Diego federal court Tuesday of involvement in a drug importing operation into the United States.

The Mammoth Lakes man had been arrested earlier this year on a federal warrant for two offenses, stemming from the alleged illegal transportation of funds from the country and financial participation in a marijuana smuggling scheme.

The first charge involving fund transportation was dropped earlier this month, and the case was decided Tuesday.

Hoar owns two businesses in Mammoth Lakes; Hobbies and Games For You and Telegrams For You.

Supervisors divided

Mammoth Scenic Loop named

by Ziba Rashidian

Mammoth's new emergency egress road was rechristened the "Mammoth Scenic Loop," by a divided board of supervisors Tuesday.

The vote was 3-2 with supervisors Al Leydecker and Mike Jencks dissenting, while the majority of the board expressed support for the Mammoth Lakes Chamber of Commerce and Forest Service recommendation.

Executive vice president of the Mammoth chamber Terry Kerr told supervisors his group endorsed the name saying, "It makes the best of a bad situation." Kerr said the name could draw additional tourism into town and might help combat the adverse publicity the community received due to its geology.

"Mr. Kerr says let's make the best of a bad situation," Leydecker said at the meeting, "but this might be making the worst of a bad situation." The Mammoth supervisor said the tourist emphasis of the road name could easily draw media ridicule.

"The road was built to answer the problem of evacuation if we're hit with a geologic incident. If we give it a 'cutesy' name we'll open ourselves up to accusations of pretending the situation doesn't exist.

McDonald's flap buries volcano

It is hard to believe that a cheeseburger can overshadow a volcano, but in Mammoth's case, it may have happened.

Early last week, most Mammoth residents felt a pit in their stomachs with the startling news that two geophysicists were saying that a volcano by late 1984 was a possibility. No prediction, but a possibility.

The national and state media began lapping up the story, but their attention was diverted by the news that the McDonald's under construction in Mammoth was applying for a liquor license to sell beer and wine.

Holy McBeers! McDonald's has polished its image as an All-American institution, a chain of restaurants as American as apple pie, motherhood and Chevrolet. The nation's media saw a sitting duck and roasted Mac's in commentaries and stories. Mammoth School Superintendent Tom Henry spent the better part of Friday answering the same questions from the Philadelphia Inquirer, San Francisco Chronicle, Los Angeles Times, NBC, CBS, AP and UPI. Henry said most of the reporters seemed to side against McDonald's, saying the liquor license application did not fit McDonald's family image.

Radio commentator Paul Harvey basted Mac's over the coals. Saturday Night Live said that maybe McDonald's should change its ad theme to "You Deserve a Belt Today." Johnny Carson guffawed and cracked jokes at Mac's expense.

What all this did, of course, was make everyone forget about the volcano story. McDonald's was the butt of all the jokes, but Mammoth rode on the coattails. In fact, this area probably reaped millions of dollars of free—and positive—publicity.

Thanks, McDonald's. We deserved a break.

Bishop needs a development plan

The uproar over the proposed shopping center adjacent to the Lazy A Safeway points out the need for an overall development plan for the Bishop area.

Merchants have spoke against the center, the Bishop Chamber of Commerce has been cautious and the city of Bishop has withheld comment. As far as that proposal goes, we think it's too early to come out for or against a proposal which is just now being studied.

The planning procedure should follow its course and issues will be considered. Merchants against the plan, consumers for the plan and city officials who don't want to get involved should all get involved.

We're glad the city of Bishop is doing a land-use study to determine any commercial or light industrial growth could occur.

There is a very solid agrument that more commercial facilities draw more people, and that benefits existing merchants as well as newcomers.

In the long run, the different factions in Bishop must get together and agree on an overall development plan. Planned development, not haphazard or uncontrolled growth, is the way to go.

No one wants massive growth that takes away the reasons we all live in a place we proudly call "God's Country."

But is it proper to shut out well-meaning people who seek to improve the commercial possibilities here?

These are important questions we must study, otherwise we will simply battle on individual cases without looking at the whole picture.

Disregard of fiscal responsibility

Dear Editor:

We would like to commend the school board for its recent action regarding a request for bids on snow removal at Mammoth High School. The request was very well designed, and asked intelligent questions so that the board had all the information needed to determine the best bid on snow removal for the school district. We hope that this will be noticed and imitated by other public entities, so that our tax dollars may be more wisely spent.

What a shock to find that the school board has chosen to ignore its own information, and will intentionally spend more money more than necessary for snow removal. In spite of having the best possible information on which to base a decision, it has knowingly wasted our tax money. Instead of determining the best service for the lowest price, the board chose to to make a decision by throwing out the competitive bids it had received and accepting a completely changed proposal. This allows the bidder to charge the school district 100 percent of the budget it has for snow removal. When did it become acceptable to spend our money simply because it is available? This action shows a complete disregard for fiscal responsibility, and violates our trust we have placed with the board to use our money wisely. Is this the kind of example we want for our youth?

As a developer and builder in Mammoth, we spend a large portion of the cost of a building in fees to the school district, in addition to our share of taxes, and it is particularly disturbing to see the school board knowingly spend more than was necessary. How much of our tax money has been wasted in this way without our knowledge?

When trying to find out more about this lapse of judgment, our phone calls to the district were not returned. Perhaps because this is so close to the election, there seems to be a reluctance to clear the air about this matter. Such actions don't look good when you are standing for election based on your ability to manage our schools.

As a member of the MHS Boosters since its beginning, this company has supported the high school partly in the belief that such support was needed due to budget constraints. The donations over the last few years of the many supporters of MHS have amounted to a savings to the school district of thousands of dollars. These savings should have resulted in a surplus of funds for the district, but apparently the habit of spending all that is available in the budget has existed for some time. How much of the cost of a new elementary school has been wasted from the budget by actions like these? Apparently our school budget problems are in part caused by mismanagement.

As voters, we now have a right and duty to bear these actions in mind when going to the polls Nov. 8.

Cheaper power possible

Editor:

Pursuant to a statement made by Dr. Cross in his letter last week regarding Southern California Edison's possible increase in cost to power users, I wish to submit the following facts.

Residents of June Lake now pay about 8.34 cents per kw-hr to SCE for power, resulting in cost of about $1,580,000 per year to June Lake residents. SCE estimates its costs at about 0.75 cents per kw-hr to produce this power, or about $143,000.

Should June Lake PUD acquire the license to operate Rush Creek it is possible the rate to customers in June Lake may be in the range of 5 cents to 6.7 cents per kw-hr. At 6.7 cents per kw-hr the total cost to June Lake residents would be about $1,273,000 — a reduction of 19.7 percent from present costs.

Rush Creek generates 49 million kw-hrs representing about 0.0816 percent of the total Southern California Edison sales — should June Lake PUD obtain the license to operate Rush Creek and SCE had to purchase 30 million kilowatt hours from the PUD at 5 cents per kw-hr, it would cost them 0.00452 cents per kw-hr. Is this the reason for the pocket-book-panic Edison is trying to arouse in its customers? This amount of 0.00452 cents, added to present rate charges, would compensate SCE for the loss of the Rush Creek Plant revenues

In the October 13th Mono Herald, SCE states rates could increase $50 annually and the pocket-book-panic for Mammoth could be $90-$100 annually. There is a considerable difference in the above figures from a 0.00452 cent increased cost to SCE.

Voters: beware of Jencks

Editor:

Voters! Don't be misled by the clever manipulations of Supervisor Jencks to appear credible.

A most recent example of his continued faulty and fuzzy thinking can be found in his forced resignation as Chairman of the Board of Supervisors. He wanted this prize so badly that he conspired with two new supervisors to elect him chairman.

Two acts, the election of Jencks to the Chairmanship and the firing of Neil Van Winkle, the County Counsel, led to a lawsuit from Van Winkle, a complete split at the Board of Supervisors, and a focus in Mono County on non-productive efforts at considerable expense to the taxpayers.

However, after Jencks was removed as Chairman he stated that "It is with some delight that I step down so I can speak more vociferously on critical issues." What baloney! He didn't step down!

In a letter to Andrea Lawrence, he addressed the new majority as though they were the beginning of pretty partisan politics in Mono County. This is a direct contradiction of his record of petty partisanship in decision making. What nerve--to accuse the new majority of the board of the very policies Jencks was being sacked for.

Andrea Lawrence said she "...separated from Mike and Al because I'm not in favor of power politics and block voting--it's destructive." Supervisor Jencks' ability to view a situation and then re-tell the story to his benefit without any regard for facts is not the style needed for an effective supervisor.

An issue during the recall process which Mr. Jencks has to this date sidestepped is the resolution of his financial collapse. In his latest newsletter he attempts to weave a fairy tale for the voters where he says the financial issue is the result of lies and innuendo by a handful of special interests. Not true! It is the responsibility of the voters to investigate the financial dealings of a supervisor and the investigation of Mr. Jencks was fueled by his own reluctance to discuss the matter. To date Jencks has not divulged the location of any litigation resulting from this collapse. He used the words "in litigation" to sidestep this issue and has attempted to discredit any discussion or investigation on this matter.

Voters should look at Mr. Jencks' attempts to sell himself to us through his shrewd manipulation of facts. Look at the discord he has brought at the county level and the resultant lack of morale in Bridgeport; look at the split he has created in Long Valley and Hammil Valley. This is not the mark of leadership and understanding required from a supervisor.

His promise of rodeo arenas in Benton and re-surfaced streets in Chalfant are examples of his campaign tactics, but these promises are empty.

He has lost trust and credibility with the rest of the Board whose consent is needed to make these promises a reality. We need a supervisor who has no use for power politics or manipulation of issues and who can return county government to a useful purpose.

Jencks uses discord and issues to count heads rather than solve problems. Read Jencks' latest newsletter and add up the substance. The sum is zero! His record stinks and his stance on controversial issues complicates the problems rather than resolving them. As a resident of District Two who is involved in a major issue I have not heard from Jencks in 1½ years because I don't agree with him. Can this neglect of conflicting ideas lead to viable and expedient solutions to the County's problems?

Seriously Enough

by Jane Fisher

Suddenly it's time for apricot skies, flaming sunsets, burnished leaves and clouds that scud. Out in the crisp indigo nights, gibbous moons light smoldering skies, candy-apple quick-fixits appear on grocery shelves and sheets, pillowcases and makeup disappear from household shelves.

Every little mischief-maker knows when the season changes and excitement sets in. When we lived on the ranch, this was the time when Mama recited "...and the Goblins'll getcha if you don't watch out," in her best Transylvanian voice. We shivered with delicious terror, knowing it was all in fun. After all, the real ghosts lived mostly in the attic and cellar of the big building we called the Honeyhouse, and whispered to us in the October nights when leaves scratched on the grape arbor that connected the Honeyhouse to our bedroom.

When the moon was full, it shone in the bedroom window and I took full advantage of it to victimize my little sister. "Do moon-madness," she would shriek, and I would so frighten her that I am afraid of the dark to this day.

We begged for the ghost stories, then. They were our very own family ghosts, of course, not some sick thing conjured up by the movie industry to cause nightmares ever after. Our ghosts were friendly, in fact, and we were cautioned to address them politely when they appeared. Having been around the family for so long, they sometimes got too familiar.

There was the great aunt, for instance, who had died too soon and came back periodically to visit with the men who rode across the river bridge on a moonlight night. Some said it was only the moonflowers waving in the eerie light, but we knew better.

Grandma had a clock made of handcarved marble and gold, with a handwritten message in German on the back. Although it was never wound, it advised her faithfully, by chiming the midnight hour, when someone in the family was going to be hurt in an accident. She also had the assistance of her mother, who said she would always come back as a hummingbird to let Grandma know when someone was going to die. And she did.

When we went to school, Halloween lost some of its flavor as a celebration of splendid family ghosts. It became a party occasion. The high-ceilinged classrooms were grim enough, with their dark oiled floors, dim lights dangling from the ceilings and our drooping efforts at orange and black art work stuck on the tall window panes. The games were endless and we just wanted to get home to our beloved ghosts. Have you ever been on the other end of a string from a boy you detested—and at the time it was unanimous—ordered to chew your way toward a marshmallow in the middle? I, for one, stayed as far from boys as the string held gingerly between my snarling teeth, and concentrated on the dream of celebrating Halloween the way my aunts and uncles had.

"Witches, Ghosts and Goblins stalked at large Tuesday night," wrote the editor of the Owens Valley Herald on Nov. 1, 1922, "to do homage to the festival of Hallowe'en and many a householder awoke the next morning to find various and sundry articles draped across his fence, or went in search of wash tubs, wood, clothes lines or whatever else had been left outside where those of the Jack O'Lantern Order could find them.

"The school bell was tolled, ladders were placed across the streets and a raid upon the old tire pile of one of the local automobile accessory houses furnished old tires with which to strew Main Street from the Istalia Hotel to Watterson's garage, while windows of stores were generally soaped." What a way to go.

After we moved to town, things did improve. We discovered begging and it was called Trick or Treat. No matter what our parents or the PTA evolved to distract us, we surged around from porch to porch in our sheets and paper bags like camp-robber crows until we were dragged home by our pillowcases full of homemade candy, candied apples, popcorn balls and bubble gum.

By the time we were teenagers, we discovered that Trick was more fun than Treat, especially if you had siblings you could terrorize into sharing their loot with you, anyway. The day after Halloween, everyone walked to school by way of Main Street. You had to be very careful to appear to be looking straight ahead, and save the hysteria for recess, otherwise you might be the designated culprit. Park benches hung from the highest foothold on telephone poles. Gates didn't match fences for days. And when sewer systems were invented to keep two-holers off the top of the school house on All Hallows Eve, the more inventive, like my sister's gang, dragged other things up there. Three boys who were unable to carry in a cord of wood over a whole winter could, with the help of one small girl, summon the strength to balance Grandpa's buggy—and for those of you who came after us, I'm talking about a horse-buggy, not a baby-buggy—on the pointed roof of the high school building.

But the end of an era loomed. Costumes were acceptable, and a few polite calls at neighborhood doors was okay, but the PTA carnival hours were extended, curfew shortened, and punishments devised by those same people who used to tell us the dashing stories of their own Halloween pranks. We retired from the fray in my junior year with one last, brilliant scheme.

By a glorious fluke of fate, I happened upon two boys with a pickup and one with a pig. We swiped enough silage to keep the pig feeling mellow in the back of the truck, which was backed up to the back doors of the Legion Hall where the annual dance was in full swing. With one of us to man the lights, one to keep the truck running for a fast disappearance, and one to liberate the pig into the darkened dance hall, we probably engineered the most magnificent Halloween coup on record.

It hasn't been easy to talk about fun this week. Friends we have known for so long they seem like family lost a precious little girl last week. We agonized for them, but nothing we can ever do or say can possibly ease the pain of that loss for them. Don't be responsible for doing that to someone. The littlest goblins will be out on Monday night. PLEASE, PLEASE WATCH OUT FOR THE CHILDREN.

Let the voters decide

Editor:

With regards to the article appearing in the Mono Herald with the heading "Early Poll Shows Recall Favored," I feel it was more than inappropriate to print, in very large print, a polling of District 1 with regards to support of candidates.

First, the article was with relation to recall, not to voting indication; Second, only 7% of our small population was covered; and third, if polling results as to people's thoughts were to be recorded, than polling should have taken place as to the total ballot for Nov. 8, 1983.

This makes me think of our recent presidential election—before the polls closed all the news stations were reporting who had won!! Is this an indication of telling our people how to vote? The article did not influence me in any way as I am a resident of Old Mammoth with my supervisor located in June Lake.

Let's allow people to think for themselves, not put ideas in their minds. Supervisorial candidates are non partisan, therefore a good, concerned citizen should be credited in making a choice for themselves.

On Missing Important Meetings

Dear Editor:

Earlier this year I decided to run for county supervisor in District 2 because I felt, along with many others in the area, that Mr. Jencks was not adequately representing the district. This point was obvious again last week, as he missed two meetings that were of extreme importance to the people of southern Mono County.

First, he neglected the return to the board of supervisor's meeting after lunch Tuesday. On the agenda was a discussion by local ranchers and farmers to decide what the requirements would be to participate in the Williamson Act. This act gives tax concessions to those farmers who agree to farm their land for a given period of time. Those people who want to develop their land for other than farm use disagree with this thinking. The farmer/developer feud has been boiling for years in the Hammil Valley area, so this meeting was important for the eventual settlement that must be reached by the board. Instead, Mr. Jencks chose not to attend.

The second meeting he missed was held recently at the Hilton Creek Community Center and focused on the county application for a permit to install a hydroelectric project on Rock Creek. Mr. Jencks sent a letter to be read into the record rather than appear in person. The letter was basically a rambling political campaign speech that talked about hydro projects other than the one in question. He obviously didn't know that this particular project started at Tom's Place and went approximately four miles up the canyon toward Rock Creek Lake and ended at the East Fork campground. His letter was talking about a project that would more directly impact the Paradise/Swall Meadows area several miles away. The fact that this hydro project would replace Rock Creek with a four-foot-diameter pipe that would forever eliminate all plant life, animal life and tourist usage in the area wasn't important enough for a Jencks personal appearance. He didn't even have a working knowledge of the correct location under discussion. Another board member, Supervisor Lawrence, felt concerned enough to attend outside her district, since similar projects are proposed on every creek and stream in Mono County and the input would be quite useful down the road.

One of the most important elements of representing the people as a supervisor is the ability to interact with other board members to educate them regarding issues in his district. Then he must convince them of either the value or negative impact of these issues when board decisions are required. History shows that Supervisor Jencks is constantly at odds with the rest of the board on most issues. This inability to lead certainly dilutes his effectiveness as a supervisor. It appears that most people in District 2 are right. A "yes" vote to recall Supervisor Jencks is necessary.

Robert Kimball

Editor's note: Robert Kimball withdrew his candidacy for the District 2 supervisorial post several weeks ago.

Angry response to Kimball

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to Mr. Bob Kimball's letter regarding Mike Jencks missing two important meetings.

First, the discussion of the Williamson Act was on the agenda for 11:30 a.m. that day. This left the afternoon free for other meetings and appointments. Supervisor Lawrence sent out cards to the members of the advisory task force stating that the discussion was set for 1:30 p.m. With the conflict that resulted, two of the supervisors could not attend due to other commitments. In truth and fairness to all, the discussion should have been postponed to another meeting, but was not. Additionally, there was no action taken on the Williamson Act that day.

Next, Mr. Kimball gave the impression that Mike Jencks chose not to be present at the meeting on Oct. 12 discussing the county's hydroelectric project on Rock Creek. If Mr. Kimball had read the letter, or if he had not been talking to Supervisor Lawrence during most of the meeting, he would know that Mr. Jencks could not make the meeting. ". . . due to a prior commitment to meet with the new hospital director and volunteer EMTs in Benton on improving emergency medical response in the Tri-Valley area." It is hardly fair of Mr. Kimball to state that it ". . . wasn't important enough for a Jencks personal appearance."

The letter that Mr. Jencks had read at the meeting was in no way "a rambling political campaign speech" as Mr. Kimball states, but an in-depth look at all of the issues regarding the hydroelectric project's needed EIR.

There was confusion about the location of the hydro plant under discussion. The project name, as given to Mike Jencks by the county, was Lower Rock Creek Hydroelectric Project. In fact, the project is located on the upper part of Rock Creek. This fact was clarified at the meeting, and the discussion proceeded. The issues addressed in the letter by Mike Jencks apply to the project discussed as well as the other projects on Lower Rock Creek. After the confusion was removed, everyone was in agreement that we wanted to stop any hydro project on any part of any creek.

If Supervisor Lawrence is so interested in saving the beauty of this area, why did she lobby hard to turn a once beautiful hillside into the abortion that is called "The Bridges."

The last point I would like to take exception to in the letter is Mr. Kimball's statement about Mr. Jencks' being "at odds with the rest of the board on most issues." In fact, on almost 90 percent of the issues that come before the board, the vote is unanimous. Since when is it grounds for a recall when a politician votes on what's best for the whole district, not what a few special interests want and not necessarily what Bridgeport or Mammoth want.

I ask you to look at all of the good things Mike Jencks has done for this district. We are no longer just the widely scattered second district, but a viable group with some say in the politics of Mono County. I urge a close look at the facts, and then a NO vote to recall Supervisor Michael Jencks.

Linda McCool

Thanks for the help

Editor: On behalf of the Inyo County Board of Supervisors, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your support during the test of the Inyo County alerting system in the Bishop area on October 5, 1983.

The amount of pre-planning and leg work done by your agency proved to be very effective. Less than four telephone calls were received by the Bishop Police from the public. No calls were received by the Inyo Sheriff or the California Highway Patrol.

Hopefully, we can arrange for additional tests in the future and continue to improve on our emergency preparedness.

Again, thank you for your assistance.

Heavy holiday traffic expected

The year-end holiday season is traditionally a period of heavy travel and early indications are 1983 may be busier than the past several years. Travel counselors at National Automobile Club's Worldwide Travel Service report that some airline discount flights have already sold out for Christmas.

Those journeying to many of the larger cities may have trouble booking specific flights and are encouraged to make reservations early. Fares also change constantly, so it pays to shop around, said the NAC.

The heavy demand for airline ticket reservations continues the upward trend apparent in recent months. Air traffic has been running higher during each month of 1983 compared to the prior two years

The Chamber of Commerce has several events coming to be aware of:

STUFFING PARTY: Wednesday, Nov. 9 and Thursday, Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. in the Sierra Nevada Inn's Mountain View room. Packets of brochures will be put together to hand out at the 1983 Ski Dazzle Ski Show at the Los Angeles Convention Center Nov. 17 to 20. Please bring about 4,000 brochures, a check for $10 to help defray shipping costs of the brochures, yourself or a representative to stuff the packets. If you would like your brochures included but can't make the stuffing party, please send your brochures and $50 the first night. Doors to the Mountain View room will open at 5 p.m. to facilitate dropping off the literature.

CANDIDATES' NIGHT: Tuesday, Nov. 1, 7 p.m. at the Community Center. Join us for an enlightening evening with your local government candidates. Ask questions, be informed. In the words of John Naisbitt, "People whose lives are affected by a decision must be part of the process of arriving at that decision." And don't forget election day, Nov. 8. There are some very important issues on the ballot that will have a lot of impact in our area.

With the holiday season approaching, our offices are swamped with calls inquiring about accommodations. Hotels, motels, cabins, inns, lodges, condos, etc.: if you have any cancellations or vacancies, please let us know so we can refer potential visitors to you. The chamber number is 934-2712.

The next Mammoth Chamber of Commerce mixer is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 14 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Roget's, Roger Egan's restaurant. This month's invitations are sponsored by the Alpine Fracture and Medical Clinic. The first drink is sponsored by the Alpenhof Lodge. One of the highlights of the evening will be Warren Miller's new film "A Mammoth Vacation" which will be shown by Evan Russell of the Mammoth Mountain Ski Area. All members and non-members are cordially invited to attend this special "Winter's Coming" mixer.

Mega-thanks to Ford Wilson and Roger Rilling for donating their time and equipment to the chamber to remove the concrete foundation at the old caboose location. Mega-thanks to Thom Merry and Ron Tinsley of Huskie Hauling for their time and equipment to remove all that concrete and filling in the holes. Mike and Cindy Henry of Josh Slocum's, thanks for your patience and understanding. We want everyone to know how much we appreciate your help.

Did you know . . . the Mammoth Lakes Chamber of Commerce, as compared to other resort destination areas such as Big Bear, Bishop, Incline Village and South Lake Tahoe (just to name a few), charges less for membership? The chamber listened to the concerns and recommendations and made comparison studies. The new 1984 rate structure, based on this information is as follows:

Number of employees	1984-85 Dues
1 - 3	$ 75
4 - 7	100
8 - 12	125
13 - 25	175
26 - 35	250
36 & up	500

A gold membership will be awarded to those paying double their dues. For some businesses this may mean a gold membership for as little as last year's membership participation!

Statistics compiled over the last three months reveal well over 8,000 requests about Mammoth poured into the caboose. We expect that number to swell dramatically over the holiday and ski season; and we just wanted to let you know that we're here and we're working for you. If we can be of any assistance, please call.

Don't forget about the Halloween Carnival Sunday evening, Oct. 30, from 5-7 p.m. at the Coleville High School gym. Parents should remember to turn their clocks back one hour Saturday night for the end of daylight saving time. If your kids trick or treat on Monday night, be sure they wear light-colored costumes and have flashlights for added safety. Meantime, bring them to the carnival Sunday. There will be games, a spookhouse, bingo, costume parade, grab-bag, dart-throw, and burritos, cold and hot drinks, cupcakes and cookies. There also are many things adults will enjoy.

Posters have been made by several classes at Antelope, and prizes will be awarded for costumes. Join your friends Sunday!

VALLEY FRIENDSHIP CIRCLE

Valley Friendship Circle recently elected officers who are: Sue Bartel, president; Eleanor Davis, vice-president; Arlys Vande Brake, secretary; Sandy Meyer, treasurer; Myrt Davies, historian; Alpha Cable, phone chairman; Phyllis Sinclair and Ceil Kane, co-devotional chairmen, and Betty Rowley, sunshine chairman.

CAREER DAY

An outstanding dinner and program was planned by Delores Lovett and her committees to observe Career Day among the Indian communities in Mono County Oct. 14 at the Walker Community Hall. The hostess was Maxine Sam and the master of ceremonies was Earl Lent, director of career development at Bishop. Guest speakers included Clara Kane Single, dressed in Indian dress, who sang the Lord's Prayer in Indian sign language, and later spoke on her career as a cosmetologist; Robert Hunter, Stewart, Western Nevada Agency; Dennis Stern from Sacramento, Bureau of Indian Affairs; Joseph Sam, who works for CalTrans; Maurice Crawford, U.S. Forest Service; Ike Lowery, Lassen College Counselor; Bud Heron, educational specialist, Western Nevada Agency, Bureau of Indian Affairs. Raymond Harris designed the drawing for the program books and Dorothy Lundy used the design on a decorated cake. Another cake was decorated with an Indian eagle fan.

Jon Lange, Julie Chico, Ann Lovett, and Michelle Lange gave a skit. Raymond Bencoma, Stephen Bencoma, Mary Gamez, and Cubby Sosa danced a monster dance.

Donations for the dinner came from the Johnson O'Malley program, Toiyabe Indian Health Unit, Save the Children, Head Start staff, and the children of Head Start who made table decorations. Delores wishes to thank all those who helped with the dinner. Coming from Bishop were Clara Fields, Tom Spoonhunter, Margaret Romero, Beverly Newell and Pearl Mason, all from the Career Development Office.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

Mono County Friends of the Library will meet at Nicely's Restaurant in Lee Vining Oct. 27 in conjunction with the Mono County Library Advisory Board.

VOTE

Antelope Valley will vote Nov. 8 to elect either Dan McCourtney or Kathy Mandichak to the Mono County Board of Education, to fill the vacancy created when Jane Charlton resigned to move to Reno. Election will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

LIONS CLUB

Antelope Valley Lions club held its board meeting Thursday night to discuss the improvement of the deer hunters barbecue. The club ran out of drawing tickets. The P.A. system worked fine outside, but not as good in the hall. There needs to be lights in the parking area by the baseball field. More than one ticket booth is necessary, according to the club. John Burke gives high praise to all those who helped and donated prizes. He says, "They were fantastic!"

SCHOOL

Homecoming week at Coleville will be held Oct. 31-Nov. 4, with a football game against Owens Valley Saturday preceded by a powderpuff football game. The homecoming queen candidates will be announced and the queen crowned at the dance that evening. Tickets are $7 for singles and $10 for couples. The queen candidates are all seniors by tradition.

Monday of homecoming week begins with a costume contest, followed by a dance from 3-5 p.m. Other activities through the week are painting the "C" and the stairs to the football field, a dress-up day with freshmen as babies, sophomores as sports, juniors wearing togas, and seniors in formal wear, and Friday, Blue and Gold Day, with activities and a 7 p.m. bonfire and pep rally. School goes on in mornings and early afternoons, believe it or not.

At Antelope Friday will be a time for paramedics to have demonstrations in the classrooms. Thursday will be the league tournament for flagball and volleyball at Lee Vining.

Chris Smith and Joe Ann Bakken are new aides at Antelope this week. Marylin Chichester will be librarian for six hours a day to allow better use of the library.

Delores Lovett has become a member of the Mono County Council. Jerry Hylton says that Antelope got off to a quick lead over Lee Vining in flag football when they played Thursday at Coleville. They hung on to defeat Lee Vining 13-12. Steve Underwood scored the first touchdown, and had one touchdown called back for a clipping penalty. Philip Gamez scored a second touchdown on a 60-yard reverse run. Chad Boardman caught a pass from Underwood for the point after touchdown. Jennifer Wilkes caught several passes from Underwood and Chad Boardman played his usual fine game of defense. Scott Padgett and Jim Sayer officiated with the help of Ben Watson.

In other games this week, Bridgeport defeated Benton in flagball and the Benton girls defeated Bridgeport in volleyball.

The Antelope girls put on a strong performance as they defeated a very good Lee Vining team, 15-6, 15-9 in a match played at Coleville. Starters Karen Burns, Carolyn Lowery, Farah Chichester, Sarah Vowles, Berta Cruz and Andrea Barazzo all played well. Consistent serving and big hitting enabled Antelope to overcome the well-coached Vikings. The Antelope girls received able help from reserves Kyla Smith, Darin Hook, and Laura Hayman who made several nice saves. Robert Cisch was the referee.

Standings for the Eastern Sierra Development League are as follows: In flagball and volleyball, Antelope, 3 won, 1 lost for both teams; Bridgeport, 2 won, 1 lost for both teams; Lee Vining, 1 won 1 lost in flagball, in volleyball, 2 won, 1 lost; Edna Beaman, 1 won, 2 lost in flagball, 2 won, 2 lost in volleyball; and Diamond Valley, 1 won, 3 lost in flagball, and no wins and four losses for volleyball.

Antelope will be the leader in the tournament at Lee Vining Oct. 27 according to the standings.

'You can't take it with you' at MHS

The Mammoth High School Drama department returns to the boards with the presentation of You Can't Take It With You, a 1930s Broadway smash comedy by Moss Hart and George Kaufman.

The comedy will be presented on Nov. 4-5, 9-10 at the multipurpose room. Curtain time is 7:15 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children.

For those who saw Oklahoma last May, some of the actors and actresses will look familiar as they return to the stage in the high school's first non-musical since Up the Down Staircase in 1981.

The plot centers around the Sycamore family, a family with very peculiar habits and an equally strange lifestyle. Grandpa, played by Todd Hamilton, raises snakes and attends graduations. Penelope, portrayed by Kristina Engel, is the mother who thinks herself to be an up-and-coming playwright but she has actually never completed a play.

Essie, her daughter, is played by Carrie Langley. Essie is a frustrated ballet dancer with a rather loud-mouthed Russian dance instructor played by Toby Armstrong.

Jeff Fields, who played Ali Hakim, the Persian peddler in Oklahoma!, will be attacking another comedy role with relish in You Can't Take It With You. Fields should be a delight as Ed Carmichael, the bumbling xylophone player.

Rheba, the maid, is played by Jodi Martin for two nights and by Erin Kittle the other two nights. Donald, Rheba's boyfriend, is played by Benjie Ladinig in his first staring role at Mammoth High.

Jason Martin will play Mr. De Pinna, the fireworks inventor who helps Paul, played by Alex Drake, design some July Fourth specials in the basement.

The last and only sane member of the family is Alice, who has fallen in love with her boss' son, Tony Kirby, played by Erik Terry. So, both Erik and Mimi are paired as romantic leads once again in You Can't Take It With You.

Tony's rather affluent parents Mr. and Mrs. Kirby are played by Michael Ladinig and Jennifer Nimeshein. The Kirbys arrive for dinner on the wrong night and chaos breaks out all over the place.

Other parts are Toni Messerer as the Tax Collector; Jennifer King, Lisa Hungerford and Anna Samardich as the policewomen; and Jennifer Engel as the Grand Duchess Olga Katrina. The stage manager is Kammay Murray.

The show is zany, funny and one you will not want to miss. Be sure to catch You Can't Take It With You on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-5 and Wednesday and Thursday Nov. 9-10.

Charleston to enter plea

Former Mammoth County Water District employee Wally Charleston will enter a plea of no contest to one charge of battery against another water district employee, according to Deputy District Attorney Stan Eller.

Charleston was originally charged with three counts of battery stemming from an incident last April between Charleston and MCWD employees Don Groundwater, Kathy McFedries and Kathy Liberato. Charleston won a change of venue in that case and the trial was set to begin Wednesday.

Eller said sentencing in the case is expected next month. He said the district attorney's office will ask for Charleston to be put on probation and fined. Charleston could face a maximum sentence of $1,000 fine and or six months in jail.

Charleston, running for a seat on the MCWD Board of Directors in the Nov. 8 election, was fired by the district last spring. That dismissal has been submitted to arbitration by Charleston and a decision is expected in December.

Charleston did not submit a candidate's statement in the special Election Preview '83.

June Lake election ballot snafu explained

The office of the county clerk has inadvertently sent sample ballots to all registered voters in June Lake regarding the June Lake Fire Protection District election to be held Nov. 8.

Only those voters who reside in the fire district will be eligible to vote on this issue. All other June Lake residents should disregard the sample ballots sent to them because they will not be allowed to vote at the polls.

This is the only issue on the ballot for the June Lake area.

interests and those valley landowners wanting changes in the general plan to allow for residential subdivision development. The Zacks were strong proponents of changes in the plan to allow for smaller lot sizes than the plan's 10-acre minimum. The Hammil Valley Farmers Association, on the other hand, wanted protections built into the plan to preserve agricultural uses.

After years of debating possible revisions to the Hammil plan, supervisors unanimously voted to retain the present plan.

"People don't seem to realize, I inherited this plan. It was put together by [Gene] Hanson and approved long before I was on the board [of supervisors]," Jencks said.

"I did nothing to stop the Zacks from doing what they wanted with their land. They are limited [by the plan]," he said.

Jencks also questioned the way the proponents of the recall movement have conducted their campaign against him.

"They're conducting their campaign in private. So far their modus operandi has been one-on-one conversation with constituents where they can make the most of innuendo and misinformation without the risk of committing a libel and being called to task," Jencks alleged.

Jencks said he has also been disturbed by the public's misperception of the purpose of the recall mechanism. He said the recall mechanism is designed to remove an elected official from office "for cause, not because you don't like his smile or because you don't agree with every position he takes, but because he's violated the public trust.

"If I can be recalled now, because I've offended two powerful factions in my district, the effect will be to hold the [District 2] elected representative hostage. It would be a message to elected officials here that they had better not offend the old guard or it'll be off with their heads. I can't believe that leads to good government," Jencks said.

Jencks also responded to the recall group's charges relating to federal, state and court liens against him arising from a failed law partnership in San Francisco.

"The charges about my personal finances are a red herring—and a stale one at that," Jencks said.

"This is the third time my detractors have made the same charges. I've never denied and I've talked openly with my constituents that I owe and am paying off some personal debts resulting from the collapse of a law firm in which I was a member three years ago. Those debts have never affected my performance as supervisor," Jencks said.

The supervisor said he welcomes questions from constituents still having questions about his finances.

Jencks first became the District 2 Supervisor in July 1981 when he received a gubernatorial appointment to the board seat vacated by John Garner. In the June 1982 election, a landslide victory won him a four-year term on the board.

Jencks outlined his accomplishments in the two-and-a-half-year tenure on the board. He said he has worked to increase the level of basic county services in his sprawling and diverse supervisorial district, including ambulance service, road improvements and the upgrading of park facilities.

Jencks said he has also worked to increase the integrity of county decisions.

"I think the county today is much more a government of laws than it was just two years ago. What that means is that it's much less important today to the success of a particular project who you are or who you know," he said.

Jencks said he has also worked to improve the efficiency of county government, advocating the establishment of a county administrative office as well as abolishing several redundant county commissions and committees. Jencks said he has also been outspoken against junkets by county officials and employees on taxpayers' dollars.

"I think I've been able to provide leadership on natural resource issues." Jencks said. He said his stands on such issues as hydroelectric development, special designation for Mono Lake and the San Joaquin Wilderness "stem from my belief is that this is such a special place to live, work, and visit I want it always to remain so."

Jencks said he has been spending little time campaigning against the recall, leaving that work to his campaign committee.

"My first priority is to keep doing the job people elected me to a year ago. To do that job well leaves me very little time to get out and fight just to stay in office. I hope what's most important to people is not how I sell myself, but how well I've done the job they elected me to just one year ago," Jencks said.

wording expressing that municipalities must stand on their merits, not on an artificially imposed preference.

Miller showed the city council a SCE-produced videotape in which SCE officials said municipal agencies obtaining licenses would cause consumer electric rates to spiral by "hundreds of millions of dollars". In addition, consumers would suffer a loss in the quality of service arising from disconnection from the SCE system, the officials said. "Inexperienced city agencies could take over — leaving customers to bear a great burden — which would, in effect, make them second-class citizens," said an SCE official.

Betty Bean, Chairman of the Board of the June Lake Public Utilities District, denied that any increases in consumer rates would occur should it obtain license of the Rush Creek project.

"Absolutely not. Rates would not go up," she said. "We figure that at Rush Creek it would cause an increase of .00452 percent."

June Lakes' intention in seeking the license is to lower rates, according to Bean. In addition, she said that the natural resources should belong to the district. One fact that has been little publicized, she said, is that should the district obtain license, it would be required to buy the Rush Creek facility at a price set by the FERC.

Bean said that the district's goals would be much less profit-oriented than SCE. According to figures verified by SCE, the area pays $1.6 million for annual service. She said it costs the company $140,000 to supply this.

"For 50 years they've been making that kind of money, but they don't mention that," said Bean. Should we obtain the license, we would supply the power for $143,000, that combined with the bond that we would have to pay off."

As for any loss in the quality of service, Bean said that June Lake would contract the "wheeling" of the project to SCE, and leave it in the SCE system.

"There's no way that there would be a loss in quality; we would probably hire them to run the project," she said. "SCE would continue the wheeling, but this would save June Lake residents a whole lot of money. They (SCE) are trying to frighten people, should this license go to us."

the answer to why earthquakes are located where they are located. 'Why did Hot Creek have a geyser on Jan. 6," asked Rundle. "Why did the fumaroles stop at the same time?" These are the kind of questions that he is attempting to answer, said Rundle.

Rundle then said, "I would say that nothing I have said hasn't been said by the U.S. Geological Survey. There is nothing new. The USGS has said all along that there was a potential for a volcano. I happened to say from 1984 to never. It's the same thing—just different words."

In the meantime, Rundle has been besieged by the media, receiving several phone calls a day from newspapers, magazines and radio stations. 'I figured Mammoth Lakes deserved an explanation—that is why I took your call," said Rundle.

Should Mammoth residents think about packing up their belongings and moving? "Don't move out," said Rundle. "It's absolutely safe to live there."

They'll [the media] say there's the community burying its head like an ostrich," Leydecker said.

The Mammoth supervisor also objected to the chamber's projection of the new road being a tourist draw. He said increasing traffic on the road could increase maintenance and plowing costs to the county as well as diverting traffic from the Hwy. 203 business strip. He also argued that recreational uses of the road, including biking and roller skating in the summer and Nordic skiing and snowplay in the winter could be impeded if the road carries higher levels of traffic than it was planned for.

Supervisor Jencks objected to encouraging additional traffic on the new road, citing safety problems at its intersections with Minaret Road and with U.S. 395.

Supervisors Paul Johnson and Bill Reid said they had heard only statements of support for the proposed road name.

Mammoth Supervisor Andrea Lawrence said that while she was concerned with the potential for ridicule posed by the proposed name, she was willing to endorse the chamber's suggestion.

"That kind of name makes us look foolish," Leydecker said after the vote. "I wouldn't be surprised if the L.A. Times pokes fun at Mammoth for trying to hide a very real problem by disguising the road as a tourist loop."

RECORD REVIEW

"Body Wishes
by Rod Stewart

Rod Stewart always seens to manage to conjour up a couple of smash hits on every new album, and "Body Wishes" is no exception. "Baby Jane" and "What Am I Gonna Do" are quickly blazing a trail into the top 10 and I wouldn't be surprised if more hits were to follow. Maybe he will even tour in Mammoth? Probably only if every Body Wishes?

THE FURTHER ADVENTURES OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN
by: Greg Matthews

It takes gumption for an Australian writer to resurrect Huck Finn in his first novel, but Matthews had done it admirably well. He is no Mark Twain, but his Huck bears a happy resemblance to the orginial, even if he is a bit more poetic and softhearted. Judge Thatcher isfound murdered, Jim breaks Huck out of jail and the rollicking tale starts rolling as the devoted pair take off, like everyone else in 1849, for California. Bulldog Barrett, the famous Boston detective, dogs them every step of the way, as do cholera, "suspicioning" strangers and "wanted" posters featuring the "venomous" Huck Finn. They encounter a brothel posing as a revivalist meeting, "Injuns" of every description, a poetic shoe clerk and more than a few villains, including the falsely presumed decreased Pap. Matthews has done his research, and the rigors of the cross-country journey are vividly engaging. Some tolerant attitudes toward sex, homosexuality and the oppression of Indians may sound anachronistic, but are easily forgiven in this high-spirited charmer.

HARVEST MOON POPCORN

½ Cup melted butter
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. dill
1 tsp. lemon pepper
½ tsp. onion powder
½ tsp. garlic powder
2 quarts popped popcorn (about 2 oz. unpopped kernels)
2 Cups canned shoestring potatoes

Combine melted butter with the Worcestershire Sauce, dill, lemon pepper, onion powder, garlic powder and ½ tsp. salt if desired, in a small saucepan. Put popped popcorn and shoestring potatoes in a large bowl. Pour hot butter mixture over popcorn and shoestring potatoes and toss well. Spread popcorn mixture on shallow baking pan and bake in 350 degree oven for 8-10 minutes, stirring once.

Makes 2½ quarts.

On a cold and spooky night you and the goblins will enjoy...

SPICED HOT APPLE CIDER

2 quarts apple juice or apple cider
1 cinnamon stick
6 whole cloves
1 tsp. whole allspice
¼ cup brown sugar
8 orange slices (optional)

Combine all ingredients except orange slices in a saucepan and bring to a simmer. Simmer gently 5 to 10 minutes. Strain into mugs and garnish each with an orange slice.

Makes 8 servings (1 cup each).

From Alberta, Canada comes this recipe for:

PUMPKIN SOUP

1 whole pumpkin, 4-5 lb.
2 cups toasted croutons
1½ cups shredded Gruyere cheese
1 tsp. salt
Dash of black pepper
2 Cups rich milk

Cut a 5 inch lid off the top of the pumpkin and scoop out the seeds. Layer croutons and cheese into the cavity. Salt and pepper them. Pour milk over. Pumpkin should be about ¾ full. Replace lid and bake 2 hours at 350 F. To serve, scrape pumpkin flesh into the milk mixture.

This is very economical and different.

When those witches and goblins come to your door, surprise them with:

PUMPKIN APPLESAUCE CAKE

4 Cups flour
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
¼ Cup cocoa
4 tsp. soda
2 Cups sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. EACH of nutmeg, cloves and allspice
1 Cup cooking oil
1½ Cups canned pumpkin
1½ Cups applesauce
2 Cups chopped nuts
1 Cup raisins

Sift together flour, cornstarch, cocoa, soda, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and allspice. Make a well in center of the flour mixture and add oil, pumpkin and applesauce. Blend well. Fold in nuts and raisins. Turn into greased 13x9-inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes (or until it tests done). Cool, then frost with desired frosting. For giving out to those spooks at the door, cut cake into small squares and wrap in Saran wrap.

CANDIED APPLES

6 medium apples
6 wooden skewers or sticks
2 cups sugar
2/3 cup light corn syrup
1 cup water
Red food coloring

Wash and dry apples. Remove stem from each and insert a wooden skewer securely in its place. In a small, heavy saucepan, dissolve sugar and corn syrup in water over medium heat. Raise heat and boil rapidly until syrup reaches 300 degrees on a candy thermometer—the hard crack stage.

(No thermometer? Drop a little of the mixture into very cold water; when removed, it will crack when tapped sharply.) Remove from heat and stir in enough food coloring to give a bright rosy color. Place saucepan in a large pan of hot water. Holding each apple by its skewer, dip into syrup until completely coated; place on a well-greased tray or cookie sheet to harden. Place in a cool, dry place.

6 candied apples

Having a Halloween Party? Here's a suggested game:

Before the party, wind several streamers of black crepe (of the same length) around the room. (You'll need one for each child.) Start the streamers at different points, but have them all lead to the center of the web. Give each child a streamer. A small prize goes to the first one to unravel the web.

GOBLIN COOKIES

1 Cup butter
1 Cup light brown sugar
1 Egg
1 tsp. vanilla
1¾ cups flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. milk
3 Cups quick-cooking oats (uncooked)
1 Cup dark raisins

Cream butter until soft; gradually add brown sugar, beating until fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Sift flour, baking soda and salt together; gradually stir into egg mixture. Stir in milk and oatmeal; mix well and chill for a few hours. Roll out dough on a sheet of waxed paper until a little less than ¼-inch thick. With a jack-o-lantern cutter, cut out cookies and place about 1 inch apart on a lightly greased baking sheet. Use raisins to make eyes, nose and mouth on each cookie. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven 10 minutes.

Makes about 40 cookies. A variety of cookie cutter shapes may be used.

Parachuting pilot found dead after Eastern Sierra crash

A Navy pilot was killed and another received minor injuries when a Marine plane crashed in the Eastern Sierra Sunday.

Major Harold Reeves, 29, was killed, according to Navy official Dave Fraker. In stable condition was Maj. Timothy Hill, 32. Both pilots were Marines stationed at the China Lake Naval Weapons Center.

The Inyo County Sheriff's office reported that hikers found the downed pilots near Darwin Glacier in the Sequoia Kings Canyon National Park in Fresno County. The pilots, who were spotted after they parachuted to the ground, were flown from Bishop to the Naval Air Station in Lemoore. Reeves was dead on arrival. An autopsy was performed Tuesday by the Armed Forces Institute of pathology.

Hill was listed in good condition after suffering cuts and bruises.

The aircraft, a twin-engine prop described as a light attack ground-support plane with good maneuvering ability, was with the Airborne Testing and Evaluation Squadron at China Lake. The plane was on a flight from Alameda north to China Lake when it made a stop at Lemoore at 3:50 p.m. and was reported missing sometime later.

The Inyo Sheriff's Office said the plane was found near the pilots in Darwin Glacier. The Navy said it won't remove the wreckage before a crash team examines it at the end of the week.

County clears way for property swap

by Ziba Rashidian

In a step to resolve the Ridgeview affordable housing deadlock, Mono Supervisors Tuesday voted to remove the deed restriction on the county yard.

The lifting of the public purpose deed restriction will clear the way for the county to swap the 3.75-acre parcel between Berner Street and Forest Trail for the five-acre Ridgeview site.

This summer the board put up a roadblock to the Ridgeview affordable housing project when it rescinded its approval of the project. The board action could have led to a lawsuit against the county by project proponents Ned Ryder and Tom Revelle.

The board rescinded approval after a group of Mammoth residents raised objections to the project. The group also filed suit against the county, alleging violations of the California Environmental Quality Act and urging the board to uphold the original MonoPlan open space designation of the site.

Since the board's action against the project, the county opened negotiations with Revelle in an attempt to keep at least part of the parcel along Mammoth Creek undeveloped.

The thrust of these negotiations has been to place the Ridgeview parcel into the county's hands either by outright purchase or through a trade. The county yard was identified early in discussions between Revelle and the county as a possible trade parcel.

At Tuesday's board meeting, supervisors divided on the issue. The vote was 3-2, with supervisors Mike Jencks and Al Leydecker dissenting.

Leydecker termed the proposed action "an absolute sellout of the county's best interest."

"If we take this step [removing the public purpose restriction] and place it in private hands for whatever purpose, it'll be another nail in our coffin; it'll be closing the door on future land exchanges [with the Forest Service]," Leydecker said.

Supervisor Andrea Lawrence, who has been involved in the negotiations with Revelle, disagreed with Leydecker. "I object to Al's persistent doom and gloom prediction that this will affect the Forest Service exchange program," Lawrence said. She said county staff and the Forest Service have agreed in conversation that the land is too valuable to be maintained in its present use.

Before the Ridgeview question can be put to rest, an appraisal of the five-acre parcel adjacent to The Stove has to be completed, which is expected by mid-November. Once a value is placed on the parcel, the county may pursue acquisition of the site for a park either by a purchase or by trading the county yard.

Soccer club off to its best start

by Nicholas Renton

In only its third season, the Mammoth Soccer Club is off to its best season ever under first-year coach Dave Trux.

The club had an unblemished 6-0 record before Sunday's disappointing 4-1 loss to Bishop, a team the club had previously beaten 7-3.

All of the club's players are students at Mammoth High, but the team is affiliated with the school only as an official high school club. It is a member of the American Youth Soccer Organization and competes in the Eastern Sierra High School Soccer League.

An unusual feature of the club is the preponderance of road games in its schedule; the Bishop loss was the team's only home game of the season. Yet Trux is looking forward to a new home field next year at Shady Rest.

The club is also unusual by virtue of having a girl in its line-up, fullback Tracey Channel. She is joined at this position by Fen Evans, Corky McIsaac, Scott Breslin and Alex Drake. Halfbacks for the squad are Pat Wyman, Sean Wilette and Dion Agee.

The offense is led by center forward P.J. DeSalvo, right wing James Heitzler, left wing Sean Oldham and forward Alex Yurcek. Kirk Schaubmayer serves as utility, while Michael Flynn captains the team from his position as goalkeeper.

The players of the week were honored by Trux and the Mammoth Lakes Rotary Club. Recipients of the honor this year include Evans, McIsaac, Breslin and Wyman.

Beats Rosamond

Mammoth gets a breather

by Nicholas Renton

The Mammoth Huskies got a breather in their drive to the playoffs with an easy 20-6 road victory over Rosamond Friday.

"We probably could have scored a little more," said John McClure, coach of the now 5-2 Huskies. "But we were happy just getting off the bus and playing. We played pretty much up to our capabilities."

Brent Witters recovered Mammoth's opening kickoff, giving the Huskies the ball on the Rosamond 30-yard line. But the Huskies threw an interception in the end zone, and only got the ball back when Rosamond failed to get off a successful punt. Quarterback Robbie Williams' 20-yard touchdown pass to Tony Rhymes and Mark Rowan's PAT gave the Huskies a 7-0 first quarter lead.

After a 65-yard Williams punt in the second quarter, Witters stripped the ball from a Rosamond receiver on the Rosamond 20. Williams has punted 23 times this year for a booming 46.3-yard average, and has passed for over 1,000 yards. Steve Safarik worked it over from the one for the Huskies' second touchdown; a bad snap prevented Rowan's conversion, making the score 13-0 at halftime.

After recovering Rosamond's onside kick attempt to open the third quarter, a drive led by the running of Safarik and Rowan ended in a 10-yard Rowan touchdown and conversion, extending the Huskies' lead to a comfortable 20-0. Safarik led the squad with a solid 108-yard rushing effort.

In the fourth quarter, with several minutes remaining in the game, McClure sent in his subs, and Rosamond made the score more respectable by scoring with 16 seconds left in the game. "Defensively Jeff Saari had a real good game," said McClure. Other stand-outs McClure mentioned were Huskie of the Week Doug Kruse.

This Friday the Huskies will travel to Mojave for a crucial league contest. "We have to beat Mojave," said McClure. "They're 1-0 in league and are a strong passing team. It should be an aerial battle down there." The game begins at 7:30, with the JVs squaring off at 5 p.m.

The JVs won their first game Friday too, winning by an 18-14 score. Jon Warrecker scored on touchdown runs of 10 and 20 yards, and John Cummings caught a 23-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Kittle.

Mammoth girls win

The Huskies' girls' volleyball team extended its winning streak to eight games with a five-game victory over stubborn Lone Pine Tuesday, 12-15, 15-2, 12-15, 15-11 and 15-7.

It was probably our worst game fundamentally of the year," said Huskies' coach Rick Naranjo. The victory improved Mammoth's league record to a perfect 4-0, 10-3 overall

The JVs, coached by Wendy Yates, won their match 15-9, 13-15 and 15-4.

Mammoth girls claim 19-1 victory in tennis

Losing only one match, the Mammoth High girls tennis team thrashed Tehachapi by a 19-1 score at its Friday road clash.

"The outcome was much more lopsided than we thought it would be going into the match," said Huskie coach Gary Gilbert, whose team now owns a 5-1 league record. "Everybody played good, solid tennis; we played about as well as we are capable."

Kristina Engel, Lisa Mather and Michele Smith swept all four of their singles matches, while Jennifer Nimeshein took three. The doubles teams of Cindy Schad-Michele Bettker and Angie Watson-Christy Nimeshein swept both of their matches too.

"We get a chance next Tuesday to avenge our only loss of the season, which was Bishop," said Gilbert.

Three area residents struggle to the limit in tough Hawaiin triathalon

by Mike Yorkey

It has been called the "most humbling experience anyone can have," but three Eastern Sierra athletes acquitted themselves well in the Bud Light Ironman Triathlon on the Big Island of Hawaii Saturday, Oct. 22.

Brian Ellison, Kevin Frampton and Penny McCoy Barrett represented Mammoth and Bishop in the so-called world championship for long-distance athletes. On Saturday at 7 a.m., they were joined by 961 other men and women at the starting line of 2.4 mile swim event.

Helping to report this story was Betty Frampton, who witnessed the Ironman Triathlon in Hawaii last weekend.

Following the swim event, the bike event (112 miles) and the marathon (26.2 miles) lay ahead of the triathloners.

Of the 964 who began the swim, 937 completed the section in the required two hours. Those taking longer were disqualified.

It was on the bike ride, however, that problems arose.

Headwinds up to 50 mph changed directions as often as a drunk sailor. The bike course went out of Kailua-Kona for 56 miles and returned, and the athletes who fought 35-mph headwinds going out sometimes had to pedal against the same headwind coming back to Kona.

Some people got off their bikes and walked them. "I was in the lowest gear and it was hard to get those pedals around," said Frampton.

Mechanical problems were the bane of Brian Ellison. First, his derailleur broke, and then three spokes on one of his wheels broke like guitar strings. Ellison had specially made the wheels for the triathlon.

Frampton ran into problems in the bike section. It seems that tacks covered one section of the road, and Frampton, along with many other riders, got a flat tire and lost 10 minutes fixing the flat. Former winner John Howard had to drop out after one flat tire, and one of the favorites, Scott Molina, had three flats and no spares left.

Following the Ironman, officials were investigating the possibility that someone purposely spread the tacks out on the road. One person speculated, however, that a carpet truck inadvertently lost the tacks.

All the time, Penny Barrett, the former World Cup ski medalist and daughter of Mammoth's Dave McCoy, was gaining time on the leaders.

In fact, Barrett was the story at the Ironman. The 34-year-old mother of three, who lives in Bishop with husband Stan, finished a remarkable fifth in her age group, 30-34, and 33rd out of the 114 women who finished. She was 304th overall.

Penny reportedly ran the marathon like a gazelle, feeling fit and passing runners in her strong finish of 12 hours, 23 minutes and 14 seconds. Of the 964 who started, 838 finished, but 126 dropped out sometime during the long race.

MONO GENERAL HOSPITAL AUXILIARY held a surprise farewell dinner for "one of its own" Oct. 20th. Approximately 55 community members came out to say goodbye to CARRIE BLASINGAME, a charter member of the auxiliary which was instituted in 1981. Carrie and her husband, Troy, will be leaving Bridgeport to return to their home in Fairfield, Ca. They said they leave with mixed feelings: happiness to be returning home, which means their children, grandchildren and parents; and, sadness in having to say goodbye to many friends made during Troy's tenure with the CHP in this area and the outdoors which they fully enjoyed. They've made a lot of friends and will be missed.

Carrie was presented with a plaque indicating she is the number 1 volunteer which she truly earned. She always volunteered without being asked and besides doing a multitude of chores connected with volunteerism, found time to be second vice president in charge of ways and means.

The gathering gave President Nancy Wells an opportunity to introduce Tom Samter the new Hospital Administrator, as well as present to the hospital a check in the amount of $2,000 to be utilized towards the purchase of an Infusion Pump and a Hydraulic Lift (to assist lifting patients out of the bathtub).

The delightful evening, which was organized by Frances Hill, found the sharing of a delicious meal prepared by Erma Phelps followed by an after-dinner social hour with cake and tea. Carrie cut the beautifully decorated cake donated by Josie Annett and it was so good that it surprised everyone that every crumb of that big cake was eaten.

All in all, the evening was the type enjoyed by residents who are truly involved with their community; one of closeness and camaraderie.

HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL. The annual Halloween Carnival sponsored by the Bridgeport PTO will be held Oct. 30, from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. There will be many booths offering fun for all, including the ever-popular booth allowing you to win a goldfish. Once again, a cake walk will be held, as well as the haunted house which will be sponsored by the 8th grade this year.

Bingo in the foyer will be conducted by Mike O'Brien throughout the evening. The popular drawing for the "treasure chest" will be going for a donation of 3 tickets for $1 or 50 cents each. The treasure chest is a large box of groceries which have been donated by the community.

Hamburgers and hot dogs and beverages will be available, at reasonable cost, so you don't have to eat dinner first. Come early, stay late and support your PTO.

Charlotte Baker and Terri Parsley who are in charge of this event said this is a PTO fund raiser which is to go towards a donation to the school, for the benefit of children, for a needed item at the end of the school year.

BRIDGEPORT PTO announces the good news that its membership drive, which recently closed, brought in a startling 100 percent participation room-by-room. In fact, they exceeded 100 percent and wish to publicly thank all the students for bringing in the memberships and making your PTO very very happy.

BETTY MENDES was royally treated on her birthday by her husband Frank. They journeyed to Reno and enjoyed the ice spectacular "Razzle Dazzle" presently showing at the Reno-Hilton. Betty says the show was fantastic and they had a good time. They topped off the weekend staying at Circus-Circus.

THE HALLOWEEN DANCE is Saturday at Memorial Hall. Happy hour starts at 8 p.m. and dancing at 9 with live music by the "Four-Plays." If you are in fiendish costume the price is $4 to get in and if you come as your ghoulish self then you pay $5. Money prizes will be given for best costumes in various categories. The Chamber of Commerce looks forward to residents coming out and having a good time.

A MEXICAN BUFFET DINNER will be held Friday at Memorial Hall at 6:30 p.m. The dinner is sponsored by the Lions Club. Lioness Irene Sierra will prepare the meal which will cost $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. The Lions will hold a short meeting, installation of new members and then bingo. This is open to the public.

LIONS are reminded that a board meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 31 at Lion Dick Pools' residence. Also, Nov. 1 the breakfast meeting will be at 7 a.m. at the Sportsman's Restaurant.

FLOYD AND GERTRUDE PFANKUCH have closed their summer home and have headed south for the winter. Many of our summer residents have either gone or are preparing to leave before winter hits full force. With the average low this past week being 22 degrees, I guess you can't blame them, but we've been having an average high of 69 degrees which isn't too bad.

Mammoth incorporation to LAFCO by late November?

by Jay Cole

Fred Christensen, the consultant to the Mammoth Incorporation Committee, stated this week at a luncheon meeting, "We expect to take the incorporation issue before the Local Angency Formation Comission by the last week of November."

Bill Zion, a consultant for Mono County, agreed with Christensen. If an incorporation election is to take place by June 1984, said Zion, then LAFCo must schedule the public hearing sometime in November.

Christensen is hoping that Mammoth will officially become a city on Sept. 1, 1984, if the incorporation question is passed by the Mammoth voters in the June ballot.

Two months ago, Christensen completed a draft feasibility study that took a financial look at Mammoth incorporation. "According to our latest study," said Christensen, "Mammoth city will have approximately $3.1 million in revenues and approximately $2 million in expenses. This leaves an estimated $1 million in annual surplus."

Considerable discusssion centered around contract service. Boyd Lemmon, who is heading up the incorporation effort, said, "At this time, we fully intend to contract with the county for a number of services." Lemmon was referring to snow removal, police protection and possibly building and planning staffs.

If the city of Mammoth were to contract with the county for services, the financial and personnel impacts on the county would be significantly reduced.

There was some more discussion about police protection at the luncheon. If Mammoth were to incorporate, the city would have the alternative of soliciting proposals from both the California Highway Patrol and the Mono County Sheriff Deputies for contract service. The incorporation committee will likely take both routes and choose the most viable department for police protection.

Still, the uppermost thing in the minds of those behind incorporation is getting the question on the June 5, 1984 ballot. "Timing is very tight if we are to meet the June 5 date," said Christensen. "There is very little room for error."

Christensen was referring to the fact that the June election must be set in January. If the date is not set after the first of the year, then the incorporation election will have to be postponed until November 1984. Postponement of the election date could cost the new city thousands of dollars in federal revenue-sharing funds, which are distributed each September.

Assuming that LAFCo approves the incorporation proposal during the November public hearing, the Board of Supervisors must approve the proposal during the last weeks of December.

Christensen and Zion were in agreement on most of the issues dicussed at the luncheon last week. More importantly, some people noted, the two are working together to set the June 5 election date.

Forest Service revenue distributed to Inyo-Mono

An interim payment of more than $22 million has been made to California for distribution among 39 counties including Inyo and Mono counties, as part of revenue received from the sale and use of National Forest products and services during fiscal year 1983.

The interim payment represents about 75 percent of the amount California will receive based upon fiscal year 1983 (Oct. 1, 1982 through Sept. 30, 1983) National Forest receipts, according to Pacific Southwest Regional Forester Zane G. Smith.

This extra money comes from the IDDA fund, which collects the difference in investment dollars actually earned and those forecast to be earned by system actuaries. While the amount of these new IDDA checks will vary, they'll all be distributed quarterly and combined with retirees' regular monthly checks.

According to the staff of PERS, only about $90 million of the available $250 million in IDDA funds will be needed this year to restore retirees' purcahsing power. The remaining $160 million will go back into the fund to start earning more money for next year.

This innovative approach to investing and disbursing pension funds is undoubtedly welcome news to California's retired public employees. These people worked many years, and they deserve a pension which allows them to spend their retirement years without worrying about making ends meet.

In my opinion, Assemblyman Stirling's reform-minded efforts in the very complicated area of retirement funds should serve as an example for all legislators. After all, making state government work better for Californians is what our job is all about.

Inyo County's share of the $22 million was $329,703.69 and Mono County received $340,715.17. Estimated total payment for the year will be $439,604.92 for Inyo and $454,286.89 for Mono.

According the federal law, 25 percent of revenue collected by the Forest Service, USDA for timber sales, grazing permits, recreation fees, mineral leases and land use charges is returned annually to the states for the counties where the 191 million acres of National Forest System lands are located. There are more than 20 million acres (one-fifth of the state) of National Forest System land in California. The funds are used for public schools and roads.

For the record

An article in last week's Mono Herald about a campaign fund raiser for Supervisor Michael Jencks, who is facing recall in the Nov. 8 election, reported that between 50 and 75 people attended the event. More than 300 people actually attended.

Softball team travels

The Northern Mono County softball team will leave for Palm Springs Nov. 3, to compete in the Western States Championships. Games will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and last year, the team placed 14th out of 36 teams.

The softball team will hold a car wash Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Bridgeport Exxon station. It will be held from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. The charge is $5 to wash inside and outside of car.

Counties receive fees from state

The state controller announced the apportionment of trailer coach fees to Inyo and Mono Counties for money collected in September.

In Inyo County received $7,731.19 and Mono picked up $1,441.76 out of the $1,425,173 distributed statewide, controller Kenneth Cory revealed.

The largest apportionment was for $169,734 to Riverside County and the smallest was for $1.55 each to Alpine and Sierra Counties.

The vehicle license fees are paid on all trailer coaches registered in California and are apportioned monthly to counties on the basis of the addresses of the vehicles.

Top dogs named by training class

The Novice Dog Obedience class held their graduation ceremonies Oct. 13 at the Tri-County Fairgrounds.

First place was won by Kelsie, handled by Ellen Bartlett; second, Cinder, handled by Nickie Grinnan; third, Tinker, handled by Stephanie Chandler; fourth, Kodi, handled by Paula Tool; and fifth, Murphy, handled by Susie Beverage.

The winning dog and handler received a plaque presented by the instructor, June Wangsgard, and ribbons were presented to the others. Each of the dogs received a Diploma.

Mrs. Wangsgard announced that the next dog obedience class will start in the spring on the first Thursday in April.

Request copies of tax returns now

Fall or early winter is the best time of year to request a photocopy of a previously filed tax return or a transcript of tax account information according to the Internal Revenue Service. This is the time of year when most of the processing work done by the IRS centers has been completed, and requests for copies of documents or transcripts can be filled more rapidly, said the IRS.

To make these requests, taxpayers should complete Form 4506, Request for Copy of Tax Form (or Individual Tax Account Information), and mail it to the address shown on the form.

Lawrence announces meetings

Mono Supervisor Andrea Lawrence is planning a series of informational sessions for Mammoth residents. The first will be held on Thursday, Oct. 27, from 4 to 7 p.m. at Boulangerie in the Minaret Village Center.

Lawrence will answer questions and provide information on Mammoth and county issues.

This first meeting will feature a MonoPlan update with Kitty Hitchcock of the County Planning Department to discuss the technical details of the update and some of the implications of the four alternatives. She will bring maps and data.

The meeting is open to all those interested.

Inyo-Mono Garden

by Mary DeDecker

One who learns to recognize the Sulphur Flower species of Buckwheat (Eriogonum umbellatum) will know half-a-dozen all at once. There are that many subspecies in Inyo-Mono.

They vary in size from a sprawling groundcover to bushes up to 3 feet high, but all are somewhat woody at the base and they have similar branching habits. Leaves are roundish or ovate to narrowly elliptic, ¼ to 1 inch long, and with a woolly-white coat on one or both surfaces. The slender stems are erect or sprawling, with a tuft of leaves at each node or joint. Flowering stems rise from theses, naked except for a whorl of leaflike brackets just below the inflorescence. This is one characteristic of the species. There is variation in form of the inflorescence, although it is usually umbellate. That is, the flowers are clustered at the ends of rays (stems) issuing from the center of the whorl of bracts. The length of the rays varies and some are shortened to form a dense head. The rays of one subspecies have a pair of tiny bracts near the middle, or the rays may branch. In buckwheats the individual flowers are always held in involucres, which are minute containers which may be cuplike or cylindrical. In this species the involucres are like shallow cups with long rounded lobes, usually turned downward. This is a characteristic of the species, but it may be necessary to pull the flowers aside to see the involucre and its lobes.

The most common subspecies of E. umbellatum are those with showy yellow flowers, sulphur color, but there are some smaller plants with paler colors. One, known as Varicolored Buckwheat, is confined to limestone, usually with Bristlecone Pine. The species is complicated and, obviously, in need of more definitive study, so no attempt is made here to describe and name the subspecies. It is enough, and should give some satisfaction to be able to recognize the species. Look for its distinguishing features.

It was first named and published in 1818, the Type Locality being "Near the Rocky Mountains." The author was Edwin James, botanist with Major Long's Expedition to the Rocky Mountains (1819-1820).

For more information on the Buckwheat Family (Polygonaceae) we refer you to the August 25 column on California Buckwheat. You are urged to use a hand lens (10X) to study the blooms.

Several species of birds and small animals feed on buckwheat seeds, flower heads, and leaves. Deer and bighorn sheep are said to browse on the plant.

Editor's Note: Noted botanist Mary DeDecker is considered the authority on plants indigenous to the Inyo-Mono area.

Theft complaint filed against local man

A felony complaint has been filed by the Mono County District Attorney's office against Mammoth Lakes resident Mark Richmond.

The complaint charges the 26-year-old with grand theft of a snow blower and a wood stove from Mammoth's Home Lumber facility. Richmond was the manager of the lumber yard until late this summer.

According to Mono District Attorney Edward Denton, the Justice Court has issued a "Notice to Appear" to Richmond. Arraignment is set for Nov. 14 at 9 a.m.

VA benefits told

The Veterans Administration reminds former servicemen and women that awareness of VA burial benefits can often spare the family of a deceased veteran anxiety and financial hardship after the veteran's death.

Burial allowance eligibility is established if the vetran died in a VA medical facility or was entitled to VA compensation or pension payments at the time of death. Eligibility may also be established for certain indigent veterans whose remains are unclaimed.

The VA provides up to $300 toward burial expenses of eligible veterans and $150 as a plot or interment allowance if the veteran is not buried in a national cemetery or other government cemetery.

The plot allowance is available if the veteran is entitled to the burial allowance, served during a war period or was discharged or retired from service because of a disability which was incurred or aggravted in line of duty.

If the veteran's death is service connected, VA will pay an amount not to exceed $1,100 in lieu of the usual burial and plot allowance.

Interment in a national cemetery is available to veterans discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. Under certain guidelines a veteran's spouse and minor children are also eligible.

The VA will furnish a headstone or marker to memorialize a veteran or mark a veteran's grave in a national, state or private cemetery. The VA will also provide markers to eligible dependents in a national or state veteran's cemetery.

The VA also provides a memorial marker or headstone for veterans whose remains have not been recovered or identified. This includes veterans buried at sea, those who donated their bodies to science and veterans who were cremated and their ashes scattered. A memorial section in national cemeteries honors these veterans.

The VA will also provide:

* an American flag to cover the casket;

* reimbursement for part of the cost of a headstone or marker bought and placed on a veteran's grave. The amount for government headstones purchased by the VA is $67;

* a memorial certificate which bears the president's signature and expresses the nation's recognition of the deceased veteran's service.
